

KEYNOTE SPEAKING REVIEWS: JOHN R. JELL

John R. Jell is the author of 3 commercially published books on helping youth better prepare for workforce transition saving them and their employers needless headaches:

His books have earned endorsements from national education leaders and editors from the following organizations:

John has been a keynote speaker on this topic for over 25 years. A sample of his keynote speaking reviews are:

"Every convention-goer I have known looks forward to hearing from guest speakers who will spark an interest, generate an idea, or motivate to pursue activities and special goals. I was very impressed with Mr. Jell. His material was excellent, well received, and he kept the audience engaged. I highly recommend him."

Ms. Jean Buckley, President, Future Business Leaders of America

"It is not easy to connect with a room filled with 100 teenagers and 60+ adults... but somehow John Jell did just that at our annual Youth Leadership Conference. His humor and warmth immediately connected with the students and his obvious wealth of experience and professional presentation impressed the community members. The other Assistant Superintendent in the room and I both had the same idea to immediately book him for other speaking opportunities with our District leadership teams. If you have the opportunity to listen to John Jell - take it. You will come away from it inspired to do better in and for the world!"

Dr. Kelly King, Assistant Superintendent, Glendale Unified School District

"High school students, university students, parents and community leaders are still talking about John's speech! As one community leader put it, John created 'an exceptional learning event.' Student survey forms used "amazing", "very motivational", "inspiring", "down-to-earth," and "simply put...effective" to describe him. We have never had such a well-received message from such an amazing speaker!"

Scott Moros, President, McMaster University Commerce Society

“WOW! Mr. Jell’s keynote address was a perfect compliment to our conference on helping to create success for our students. He was articulate, dynamic, motivational, and truly inspired our educators. I would highly recommend him.”

Ms. Abigail Reynolds, Past President, Association of Career & Technical Education

“A-W-E-S-O-M-E! Mr. Jell is what a keynote speaker should be!”

Dr. Sarah Hawes, Consultant, North Carolina Dept. of Public Instruction

“As the AS Programs Coordinator and CASE Advisor for SDSU, I cannot say enough about John Jell and his empowering message. He was incredible to work with on a professional level and given the feedback I received from my students, I truly believe he touched the hearts and minds of those that were able to participate in this wonderful event. John Jell’s message transcends traditional lectures, giving students a firm sense of reality while arousing each student’s ability to control their own destiny.”

Jamie Lynn Cochran, Programs Coordinator, Associated Students – San Diego State University

“I strongly believe that every community college student would greatly benefit from John’s presentation! His personal story, enthusiasm, and advice really resonated with our students! Community college students face many obstacles. John made what so many find complex very simple. Several students stopped to thank me for inviting him to our campus and Faculty also heard from students who went back to their classes and talked about the impact John made in their decision to be successful in life. I highly recommend him!”

Ms. Alketa Wojcik, Associate Dean – Student Services, Mira Costa College
